The declaration of intention, or first papers, was the first step in the naturalization process. Usually these first papers were submitted soon after the alien citizens arrived in the United States. For the most part, before 1906 (when the law changed) the first papers contained very little biographical information. After 1906, first papers could contain: name, address, occupation, birthplace, nationality, country of origin, date of birth, place of birth, personal description, date of intention, marital status, last foreign residence, port of entry, name of ship, date of entry, and date of document.

If you would like to have a copy of someone's papers, write to:
